Eagle Scout Newsletter

October/2010

Dear James,

Welcome to the first edition of the Eagle Scout Newsletter. Each quarter you will receive updates on how Scouting has impacted the lives of our young leaders. You'll find interesting profiles and features that highlight the important factor Scouting plays in the lives of young people.

Where Are They Now?

Will Wright graduated in 2003 from Virginia Tech with a major in Marketing Management. He was in the first full Summer WS Class in 2005 where he served his Fellowship Venue at the Reserve Officers Association of the United States.

He's taken the networking skills he learned while obtaining his Eagle Scout and through his time with the Washington Scholars to pursue an MBA in Global Business. His future goals include starting his own business, allowing him to provide jobs and help build the economy.

Kevin Powell is in the Washington Scholar Class of 2010. His Fellowship Venue is at the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Reserve Affairs. His Washington Scholars experience has far exceeded his expectations. He heads back to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington with renewed vigor.

Kevin's future goals include finishing his degree and serving his country in the field of Defense and Homeland Security. He also stays active in Scouting and wants to help others achieve the same success he's found.

A.J. Fluehr graduated in 2008 from Penn State with a degree in Political Science. He was in the Washington Scholar Class of 2007 where he served his Fellowship Venue at the Executive Office of the Vice President.

He can be seen in this photo gaining valuable experience by speaking at the Conservative Political Action Conference. A.J.'s leadership skills were honed during his time in Scouting. He plans to continue using these skills in his career as a lawyer.

Chairman's Message

This is my first Chairman's Message with regard to the Washington Scholars Eagle Scout Fellowships that the Admiral Carey Foundation has now supported and helped fund over the past ten years. I am exceptionally pleased with the success and accomplishments of this fine program whose focus is to train and educate and professionally credential Eagle Scouts [along with other Washington Scholars "best & brightest" young men and women in their junior/senior/postgrad years] so they can qualify for and establish a life's career path rather than "just a job" and make best use of their already proven ability to perform at the highest standards through their achievement of Eagle Scout Rank. And thus far, we have been superbly successful in this effort, with WS Eagle Scout Graduates now employed at the U.S. House of Representatives Sergeant at Arms Staff, attending Law School, on the White House Staff, and at one of Washington, DC's most prestigious public and government relations firms! Not all bad for a program only one decade old. For Full details on our WS Eagle Scout Graduates, just CLICK HERE. And to apply for this tremendous program, go to www.WashingtonScholars.org and put "Eagle Scout Program" at the top of your application. Special Thanks to all who are supporting the Admiral Carey Foundation, the Good Samaritans Foundation, and the Washington Scholars Program in this outstanding and patriotic effort to give those who have already proven themselves during their youth through achievement of Eagle Scout rank the BEST POSSIBLE CHANCE to succeed in their adult life and careers. These young men have already demonstrated their commitment to our nation through their highly successful participation and accomplishments in USA Scouting Programs and with this Fellowship Program, we are fulfilling their dreams by providing them with a brighter future and a meaningful life's career in Continued Service to America.

With all good wishes,

Rear Admiral [Ret.] Jim Carey, National Chairman

Editor's Note

It is my goal to use the Editor's Note section to provide insight into the various ways that Scouting and the Washington Scholars help to prepare young adults for success. Today I've been contemplating the relevancy of the Scout Law to everyday life. Growing up I must have repeated the Scout Law a thousand times. Looking back on it now I realize its poignancy and the lessons it ingrained in me over the years. Review it. You'll find a foundation for interacting with others that if followed act as a primer for success. Really it's a guideline for networking in it's most efficient form. In future editions I'll break down the elements of the Scout Law to show their correlation to success.

Scout Law

A Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty,
brave, clean, and reverent.

All the best,

David Arrington
